

Sarah Güsten-Marr reveals Cultural Crossings project front page feature

THE MIRROR GHANA | FEB 2016 CULTURAL CROSSINGS

“Smiles and laughter, inspired by optimism, lit up the atmosphere in the Mma Zara Restaurant at the Best Western Premier Hotel, Airport residential Area in Accra, last Saturday, February 20, as artists of different persuasions came together for the launch of the multi-flanged project, dubbed Cultural Crossings.”

Sarah Güsten-Marr and Sir Black founder of Ehalakasa have joined forces to create a new initiative called “ Cultural Crossings”. Cultural Crossings has been carefully put together by two artists who passionately believe in the importance of cultural understanding.

A private reception was held in Ghana hosted by Güsten-Marr and Sir Black. The evening was a huge success with Deputy Minister of Tourism, Culture and Creative Arts, Dzifa Gomashie (pictured with Güsten-Marr above) ; actress and film producer, Juliet Asante; Daddy Bosco of the Musicians Union of Ghana; photographer and music industry publicist, Cary Sullivan and Liberian photographer and actor, Omanza Shaw among many others were in attendance.